Eric Schacht Named Interim Executive Director- WSGLT Seeks Applications

Cheyenne, Wyo.- The Wyoming Stock Growers Land Trust announced today that Executive Director Bo Alley will be stepping down at the end of March. Conservation Director Eric Schacht has been named Interim Executive Director. Applications are being sought for the Executive Director position, with an application deadline of May 1, 2019.

“We wish the best for Bo in his new endeavor. I am excited to serve as the Interim Executive Director and looking forward to facilitating the leadership transition for the WSGLT team,” Eric Schacht said about his appointment.

The Executive Director oversees administration, finance, and management of the 9th largest regional land trust in the United States (by acres conserved). Bo Alley commented on his departure, saying “The Wyoming Stock Growers Land Trust is a trusted conservation leader and it’s been an honor serving such a great organization. I’m proud of the work we’ve accomplished and know the talented staff and board will continue to be champions and leaders of conservation through ranching.”

A full job description can be found at <https://www.wsgalt.org/employmentopportunities/>. Applications may be submitted prior to May 1st by sending a cover letter, resume, and references to Kaylee Madigan at kaylee@wsgalt.org.

About the Wyoming Stock Growers Land Trust

*The Wyoming Stock Growers Land Trust is dedicated to conservation through ranching. Based in Cheyenne, the non-profit organization serves the entire state and is Wyoming’s only agricultural land trust. Through partnerships with ranch families, the Wyoming Stock Growers Land Trust holds and stewards conservation easements on more than 252,000 acres of land on ranches and farms throughout Wyoming. Founded in 2000 by the 140-year-old Wyoming Stock Growers Association, it is one of the largest among the 1,659 regional land trusts in the United States.
